

Introduction

This notice is to inform customers that a new National Waste Programme e-learning module Introduction to Low Level Radioactive Waste is now live and available free of charge to all.

Introduction to Low Level Radioactive Waste e-learning

The National Programme Office, in consultation with stakeholders, is developing a framework of training modules to support the industry in knowledge and skills development for the management of Low Level Waste (LLW).

Introduction to Low Level Radioactive Waste covers: what solid LLW is and where it arises; LLW management principles and good practice throughout the waste's lifecycle; how to access waste treatment and disposal routes; and the regulatory framework surrounding LLW management.

The course, though available to anyone, is particularly suited to: waste practitioners supporting the management of waste on a nuclear site; team leaders whose teams handle waste; and project and building managers.

Introduction to Low Level Radioactive Waste is designed to complement and extend the learning available through an existing e-module Introduction to Waste.

Modules are also available on how to complete LLW Repository Ltd forms, which enable waste producers to access treatment and disposal services through LLWR. These training modules cover the existing waste service forms and will be updated as soon as possible after the forthcoming launch of the revised forms. A customer notice will be sent out once the revised training is available.

How to access modules

The e-learning modules are available free of charge via the Nuclear Training Network. Instructions on how to register can be found under the training section of the LLWR website:
<http://llwrsite.com/national-waste-programme/llw-training-modules/>

If you are already registered on the NTN portal (<https://www.nucleartrainingnetwork.com/>), insert 'NWP' in the search box and the new course and all existing modules will appear.
